Subject: New BPIP website is now live

Dear BPIP colleagues,

We are now pleased to formally announce the launch of the new BPIP website (<https://www.bpipinfo.com/>) which has a more modern feel and works much better with new web browsers (and also on your phone).

Eagle-eyed members may have noticed we had a soft launch of the new website a few weeks ago, and since then we have been finalising its functionality and porting over member details from the old site to the new site; related to this, in recent days some BPIP members may have received a password reset email if your password for the old website did not match the password rules for the new website – this is a legitimate email so please do not ignore it. If you did assume it to be spam and deleted it, please use the ‘forgotten password’ option when trying to login to the Members Area on the new website to reset your password if you cannot log in with your current details. The password requirements are different for the new site, and not all passwords meet these.

We owe a huge thank you to Sheena Zuberi for all of her hard work to get the new website designed and fully functional. Sheena has spent many hours of her own time putting together the new website, whilst also relocating from the UK to Canada, and we are forever grateful to her for her efforts on this.

We’re also keen to get feedback from BPIP members on the new website, so if you do have any comments or ideas for further add-ons then please do let us know.

Best wishes,

Chris and Kathy
(BPIP Chair / BPIP Secretary)
